RELIGION

Which God will I serve?

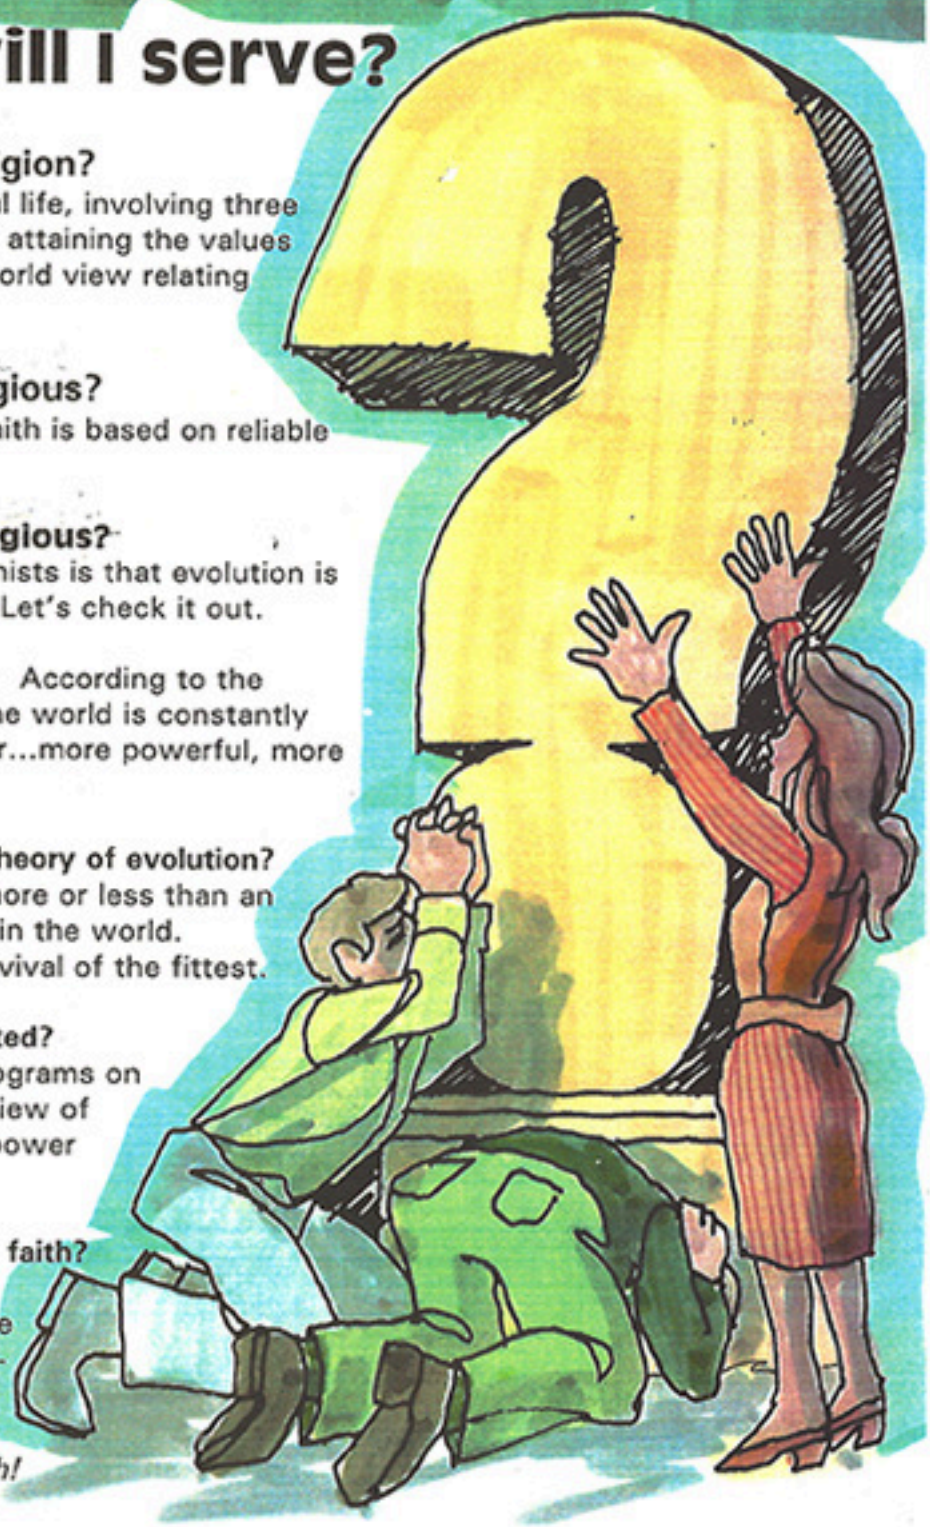
What is the definition of religion?
The quest for the values of an ideal life, involving three phases: the ideal, the practices for attaining the values of the ideal, and the theology or world view relating the quest to the environing world.

Is the basis for creation religious?
Yes! The basis is religious. The faith is based on reliable evidence.

Is the basis for evolution religious?
The universal outcry from evolutionists is that evolution is not religion...evolution is science! Let's check it out.

Is there a quest for an ideal world? According to the theory of evolution everything in the world is constantly advancing toward something better...more powerful, more efficient, more intelligent.

Are there values presented in the theory of evolution?
The main value is that man is no more or less than an animal, and there is no active God in the world. Another significant value is the survival of the fittest.

Is there a world view being presented?
All but a fraction of the science programs on television are based on the world view of evolution, and it is preached with power and zeal.


Is the theory of evolution based on faith?
In a casual reading of evolutionary writings, we are impressed with the uncertainty of explanations. Sometimes there are admissions that it seems impossible, but, it has to be true. This, by any definition is faith!
